stfm membership

Family medicine has never been in a better position to lead change. Together.

As a member of the Society of Teachers of Family Medicine (STFM), you'll learn about ways to lead your communities modeling health equity, wellness, antiracism, and more. Other benefits of membership include:

- Support in meeting accreditation requirements
- Access to professionally prepared curricula
- Unparalleled networking opportunities
- Access to academic family medicine's leading conferences
- Subscriptions to outstanding peer reviewed journals

Choosing a profession that provides an opportunity to impact those around you can be transforming. The comprehensive wealth of knowledge you acquire as a family medicine physician makes that impact even greater.

With vast contributions to underserved communities, medical schools, and residency programs, family medicine and education are among the most respected professions in the world.

Applying for membership is an easy and important step to advancing your career, as well as championing family medicine.

stfm 2020-2021 initiatives

Virtual Meeting Expansion

To maximize the STFM member experience during the COVID-19 pandemic, STFM leadership and staff quickly converted in-person meetings to virtual meeting environments. The 2020 Annual Spring Conference and 2020 Conference on Practice & Quality Improvement, as well as the 2021 Conference on Medical Student Education, were converted to virtual environments with live general sessions, question and answer sessions, on-demand education presentations, poster halls, interactive Zoom room meet-ups, and networking events.

COVID-19 Antiracism and Health Equity Resources

STFM responded to member and learner needs during periods of disruption related to the COVID-19 pandemic and internal race relations using multiple digital and traditional channels to disseminate information, while developing repositories for resources in the following areas:

- COVID Resources: STFM aggregated resources to help family medicine faculty continue to provide quality education to residents and students, virtually. Resources are categorized by distance learning, faculty resources, telemedicine, supervision, tele-visit billing, COVID-19 tracking, virtual interviews, and wellness.

<https://stfm.org/covid19>

- Antiracism and Health Equity: STFM released a statement condemning discriminatory and racist acts with a call to our family medicine community to speak out against inequality and systemic racism. STFM members and staff continue to aggregate resources in the areas of antiracism, health equity, and URM leadership, resulting in a web page for the resources:

<https://stfm.org/antiracism>

Health Systems Engagement

STFM's strategic plan includes a priority to engage with health systems leaders from both organizational and individual perspectives. In May 2020, the STFM Board of Directors approved support for phase one of a plan to position academic family medicine within health systems. The goals of the plan are to:

- Ensure that family medicine faculty, including community preceptors in non-academic settings, have sufficient time and institutional resources to teach and meet academic and accreditation requirements
- Preserve comprehensive practice for family physicians and family medicine faculty who wish to practice broad scope
- Improve faculty and learner well-being
- Transform family medicine training sites into clinical and teaching models of excellence

Underrepresented in Medicine

African American, Latino, American Indian, Alaska Native, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander faculty members collectively comprise only 9% of academic medicine while representing almost 33% of the national population (AAMC/US Census Data). STFM and the STFM Foundation launched an initiative to increase the number of underrepresented in medicine (URM) medical students, residents, and new faculty in academic family medicine.

In 2020, STFM launched a 3-year secondary phase, focusing on building evergreen resources and sustainable infrastructure to provide tools to dismantle structural barriers for URM faculty in academic medicine. The overarching goals of the initiative are to:

- Increase the percentage of URM family medicine faculty.
- Increase the number of solutions focused, adaptable URM leaders within our health care system.

Telemedicine Curriculum

In February 2020, the STFM Board of Directors approved funding to convene a task force to develop and disseminate telemedicine curriculum for students, residents, faculty, and clinicians. Steven Lin, MD, was appointed task force chair. In response to COVID-19, task force members added more specificity to the initial charge:

- Develop national telemedicine curriculum for students and family medicine residents with an emphasis on family medicine.
- Develop guidance to help teaching clinicians integrate telemedicine topics into courses, clerkships, and residency curricula.
- Promote the curriculum and guideline through papers and presentations.

advocacy

STFM staff advocate on your behalf for family medicine education in Washington DC. Ideally, advocacy is a partnership between STFM staff and STFM members. Learn how you can get involved. STFM provides content related to significant issues, as well as tools to help you develop skills to engage policy makers on key issues of concern.

Advocacy Toolkit

Make a difference for yourself, your department, your community, and your learners by advocating for programs that support family medicine education and research. Educate legislators on the value of primary care and encourage them to support expansion of a well-trained family medicine workforce. Preparation with these tips and resources is key to becoming an effective advocate:

career development

Behavioral Science and Family Systems Educator Fellowship

Grow professionally while integrating behavioral science and family systems core principals in the practice of family medicine with this competitive, yearlong fellowship for family medicine faculty who have responsibility for coordinating or teaching the behavioral science/family systems curriculum. Preference is given to applicants with 1 to 5 years of experience as a faculty member. The Behavioral Science/Family Systems Educator Fellowship uses a structured learning curriculum of core content and formalized mentoring and will help you:

- Better understand the medical culture
- Build a personalized professional development plan
- Integrate behavioral science and family systems core principles into the practice of family medicine
- Plan, create, and present a scholarly project at a national conference
- Grow professionally through strong mentoring relationships with seasoned behavioral science/family systems educators and physicians

stfm.org/bfef

Emerging Leaders Fellowship

Access training, tools, and support for new faculty and those transitioning to leadership roles. This yearlong fellowship provides an opportunity to:

- Learn critical leadership skills
- Take on a leadership role right from the beginning of the program
- Lead a team in a project and present on your leadership experience
- Get connected to family medicine leaders who will share tips on motivating others and handling difficult people and situations
- Attend the STFM Annual Spring Conference 2 years in a row—nothing tops this conference for networking, exposure, and presentation experience

Medical Editing Fellowship

Experience a yearlong fellowship with the editorial and publishing teams at Family Medicine. Through this part-time, virtual fellowship, early or mid-career faculty receive coaching and hands-on experience to improve skills in writing, reviewing, and editing scientific papers. During the fellowship, participants:

- Learn about the characteristics and value of well-written research papers and narrative essays, and practice evaluating submissions
- Experience the manuscript submission process and become expert in using the journal's editorial software system
- Act as assistant editors by selecting peer reviewers, following-up reviews, and writing professional decision letters
- Go behind the scenes to understand what happens between acceptance and publication
- Improve medical writing skills

stfm.org/mededitingfellowship

Medical School Faculty Fundamentals Certificate Program

This certificate program includes self-led courses and assignments to provide foundational training for medical school faculty. Based on the popular STFM Residency Faculty Fundamentals Certificate Program, the program includes interaction with a faculty instructor, real life application of lessons, and covers:

- The structure and requirements of medical education
- How to be an effective and efficient faculty member
- The nuts and bolts of curriculum development and teaching
- Strategies for assessment, feedback, and evaluation of medical students
- Academic advancement

The program's 14 self-led courses include readings, videos, interactive modules, quizzes, and assignments and provide 35 hours of CME credit.

stfm.org/msff

Medical Student Educators Development Institute (MSEDI)

Learn the skills needed to advance your career in medical student education, while forging lasting relationships with other participants and MSEDI faculty. Learning opportunities include:

- Curriculum development
- Student evaluation
- Dealing with challenging learners
- Recruiting and maintaining preceptor networks
- Directing a course
- Providing career advice to students
- Submitting a scholarly project
- Life balance

stfm.org/msedi

Residency Faculty Fundamentals Certificate Program

This certificate program includes self-led courses and assignments to provide foundational training for residency faculty, and covers:

- The structure and requirements of residency education
- How to be an effective and efficient faculty member
- The nuts and bolts of curriculum development and teaching
- Strategies for assessment, feedback, and remediation of residents

The program's self-led courses include readings, videos, interactive modules, quizzes, and assignments and provide 30 hours of CME credit.
